

UGFH1099 阅读人文 (Reading Humanity)

科目简介:

本科邀请同学探讨「人文」的意义，思索人的本质与核心价值问题。探索会从个人和社会两个层面进行，确认人是追求个人幸福的独立个体，也是谋求群体福祉的社会一员。同学将与文学家、哲学家、社会思想家的作品展开直接对话，一同反思三个基本问题：美好的人生应包含甚么内容？理想的社会应具备甚么条件？美好人生与理想社会如何获致？

本科从不同的人文学科，挑选影响深远的中外经典著作，辑录篇章，供同学阅读、讨论及撰文分析，提升同学读原典、论原典的信心和能力。同学将逐一审视各篇章所提出的观点和理念，估量它在当代世界是否仍真确适用；同学并须针对以上三个问题，评价有关个人潜能与理想人生种种论点，寻找自己的答案。

The course invites students to investigate the problem of “humanity”—i.e., what it means to be human—at two levels: human as an individual and human as a social being. Students will be engaged in a direct dialogue with literary writers, philosophers and social reformers who address three fundamental questions: What is it that makes a “good” life for me? What is it that makes a “good” society for everyone? How do I make possible such a “good” life and “good” society? Students are expected to read, discuss, and write about a wide range of texts extracted from influential classics in the humanities East and West. They will be encouraged to discover their own answers to the three questions by considering views and arguments expressed in the texts, and by exploring how far and in what ways such views and arguments may hold true for the contemporary world. Where appropriate, the selected classic texts will be given bilingually to help students enter the world of classics and develop confidence and competence in approaching primary texts. Emphasis will be placed on students’ capacity to respond critically to the selected texts in oral and written presentations, in the form of class discussions, short essays and a term paper. Class size will be kept small to maximize discussions and to facilitate intensive guidance on academic writing, in Chinese and/or English as specified by the instructor.

科目内容:

本科目以中文为主进行授课，课堂配以数篇中外经典文本的选段。这些文本包括柏拉图的 Symposium、亚里斯多德的 The Nicomachean Ethics、一行禅师的《与生命相约》、《论语》、《庄子》、《圣经》及《古兰经》。导师会尽量提供中英对照的文本，帮助同学进入经典的世界。

课程主题：

1. 选择与突破：《奥德赛》(The Odyssey)
2. 爱与追求：《会饮》(Symposium)
3. 幸福是什么：《尼哥马各伦理学》(The Nicomachean Ethics)
4. 仁与人伦：《论语》
5. 虚己以游世：《庄子》
6. 慈悲与互即互入：《心经》
7. 人的局限：《圣经》(Bible)
8. 顺服与超越：《古兰经》(Qu'ran)

同学需就篇章进行课堂讨论，提交思辨短文和期末论文，表达个人的见解，深化讨论。论文应按导师要求以中文书写。为确保学员有充分机会参与课堂讨论，并在学术论文书写方面得到适当的指导，每组学生人数有严格限制。

教与学活动： 导修讨论及讲授

评核方法： 课堂讨论、短测、论文

UGFN1099 阅读自然 (Reading Nature)

科目简介：

本科目旨在通过经典阅读来进行跨学科的智性探索，范围涉及自然科学中最基础的两个领域：物理科学与生命科学。这些经典文献记载了人类探寻自然世界的历程，追溯到古希腊哲人开展的以理性探索世界的传统，奠定现代科学方法的基础，至近代物理科学的诞生。并将这种对大自然的寻问深入到生命领域，在冲击人类自我认知的同时也带来反思，反思人类对大自然的理解以及他们在自然中的地位与责任。

通过本科目的学习，我们希望学生能概括地了解科学概念、科学方法，以及科学家如何联系学术追求与当代生活，从而建立对科学议题的看法。本科着重提升同学读原典、论原典的能力；训练同学发挥批判思维，就指定篇章进行深入讨论；并提交论文，表述个人反思和分析的结果。希望学员透过这些学习活动培养整全的学术能力与学术热诚，将来继续与科学文本对话。

This course is a cross-disciplinary intellectual pursuit through classics reading, focusing on the two most fundamental domains of natural sciences, namely the physical and the biological sciences. These classics reveal the long-time journey of mankind's quest to understand the natural world, from Ancient Greek philosophers starting the exploration of the world with reason, laying the foundations of natural science, to the birth of modern physical science. This scientific enquiry into Nature was further into the world of life, influencing the self-cognition of mankind and leading to a reflection on the human understanding of Nature and the humans' place in it.

From this course, students are expected to gain a general understanding of the concepts and methodology of science, and of how scientists relate their academic pursuit to contemporary life, thereby to develop their own perspectives on scientific issues. This course emphasizes on classics reading and discussion, helping students to practice their critical thinking skills to discuss the select texts, and writing academic essays to present their analysis and personal reflections. Through these learning activities, students are expected to develop an all-around academic capacity and enthusiasm to continue such dialogues with science texts in the future.

Medium of Instruction	English
Course Description
Course Overview This course will introduce ecotourism which is an important component of the tourism industry, and is becoming relevant to most societies. It will develop and focus on a natural resource-based perspective incorporating resource and environmental management principles. The first part of the course will cover the general introductory concepts and provide students with theoretical and historical background of the discipline. This will be followed by in-depth study of specific environmental settings and resource issues that will complement our understanding of ecotourism. Hong Kong is the main focus of discussion though examples or cases in Mainland China and around the world are also provided throughout the course. Critical issues in ecotourism such as its multi-dimensional impacts, governance, planning, and resource and visitor management will also be covered. Lastly, students will be exposed to the relation of the phenomenon of ecotourism and the concept of sustainable tourism. Some of the lectures will address SDGs, for example, Goals 12, 16 and 17 embrace the knowledge and evolution of environmentalism and nature-human relationship; Goals 14 and 15 connect with the concept of protected areas and environmental conservation; Goals 1, 3, 5, 8, 11, 12 and 13 cover multi-dimensional tourism impacts and, more importantly, climate change issue. The concept of sustainable development will frame and conclude the entire course since the concepts has played an indispensable role in tourism development nowadays. Course objectives The course objectives are: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• To provide broad intellectual perspective of ecotourism and to instill an understanding of it as an academic discipline;• To offer students an understanding of the holistic approach to environment and resource management issues related to tourism, ecotourism and sustainable tourism at the local, regional and global levels;• To develop basic knowledge on ecotourism development and its potential; and• To train students to come up with timely responses to critical issues on conservation and natural resource management

Learning Outcomes

This course will provide a broad intellectual perspective for students and enable them to develop a holistic understanding of environmental and resource management issues related to ecotourism. Students will acquire basic knowledge of ecotourism development and its potential and can be capable of making judgment in response to critical issues on conservation and natural resource management.

Specifically, after successfully completing this course, students will be able to:

- Understand the basic concepts of ecotourism and its relation with the overall tourism industry;
- Acquire knowledge in operating and managing ecotourism activities;
- Develop an understanding and the skills and approaches necessary for interpreting relevant policy and planning of natural and man-made resources for (eco)tourism; and
- Enhance problem-solving capability using an integrative approach and critical thinking as introduced in the course.

Learning format and activities:

- Lecture series: This part provides the basic concepts, knowledge and theoretical basis for the analysis of specific issues and case studies.
- Group project: This exercise, which requires the hands-on application of concepts and knowledge learnt from lessons, allows students form groups to conduct ecotourism potential study of a selected site in Hong Kong.
- Virtual field trips: This part exposes students to have virtual experience in exploring the potential, or managing and operating ecotourism activities in different environmental settings.
- Video sessions with class exercises and/or discussions: Students will watch selected videos and learn to identify critical issues and interpret real situations.
- The medium of instruction is English; most of the course materials and all assignments are in English.

Attention is drawn to University policy and regulations on honesty in academic work, and to the disciplinary guidelines and procedures applicable to breaches of such policy and regulations. Details may be found at <http://www.cuhk.edu.hk/policy/academichonesty/>.

With each assignment, students will be required to submit a signed declaration that they are aware of these policies, regulations, guidelines and procedures.

- In the case of group projects, all members of the group should be asked to sign the declaration, each of whom is responsible and liable to disciplinary actions, irrespective of whether he/she has signed the declaration and whether he/she has contributed, directly or indirectly, to the problematic contents.
- For assignments in the form of a computer-generated document that is principally text-based and submitted via VeriGuide, the statement, in the form of a receipt, will be issued by the system upon students' uploading of the soft copy of the assignment.

Assignments without the properly signed declaration will not be graded by teachers.

Only the final version of the assignment should be submitted via VeriGuide.

The submission of a piece of work, or a part of a piece of work, for more than one purpose (e.g. to satisfy the requirements in two different courses) without declaration to this effect shall be regarded as having committed undeclared multiple submissions. It is common and acceptable to reuse a turn of phrase or a sentence or two from one's own work; but wholesale reuse is problematic. In any case, agreement from the course teacher(s) concerned should be obtained prior to the submission of the piece of work.

The copyright of the teaching materials, including lecture notes, assignments and examination questions etc., produced by staff members/ teachers of The Chinese University of Hong Kong (CUHK) belongs to CUHK. Students may download the teaching materials produced by the staff members/ teachers from the Learning Management Systems, e.g. Blackboard adopted by CUHK for their own educational use, but shall not distribute/ share/ copy the materials to a third-party without seeking prior permission from the staff members/ teachers concerned.

Course Description
Course Overview Globalization processes have been affecting every nook and corner of the world. We are all fascinated by the impacts of transnational companies; the increasing cross-boundary flows of resources as well as the increasing competition among places and cities. Resources becomes keen issue due to the growth of population, trade and economy in the age of globalization. Good management of resources will thus be both global and local concerns. In this regard, there is increasing enthusiasm in addressing the most pressing and challenging issues that the world is facing today, and these are Globalization and the pursuit of Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The course will therefore expose students to both globalization and its role in the SDGs. Participants will acquire both individual and collective knowledge, skills, values and attitudes to enable them to understand the pathways towards sustainable development, globalization and the various catalysts for development. Various cases in the real world will be analyzed. This course will help students to broaden their views on the SDGs and understand the importance and implications of resource issues in both developing and developed countries in the age of globalization. Course Objectives <ul style="list-style-type: none">• To broaden student’s knowledge and horizon on resource issues at the local, regional and global levels• To allow students to understand the implications of resource issues in the age of globalization• To allow the students to understand the cognitive, socio-emotional and practical aspects of the SDGs• To help students develop critical thinking on issues that affect their daily life

MUSC 3562: Chinese Music, aesthetics, and Globalization

Professor Frederick Lau
Chinese University of Hong Kong
1-5 Aug and 8-11, 2022
9AM-12:PM

Music is socially situated and culturally significant. Taking this as a starting point, this course explores the multiple approaches in the study of Chinese music beyond the conventional paradigms of music analysis and aesthetics. The age of viewing music simply as a cultural product is considered inadequate in the study of music as the understanding of music as art is being challenged. Music is at once a product and a cultural process. Like other domains of culture, music is intrinsically linked to philosophy, history, social imaginary, and cultural preference. This course will present both theoretical framework and case studies that help us think through issues of musical change, adaptation, appropriation, and beyond in the age of digital communication and intense globalization. Topics under discussion will range from the definition of music aesthetics to the idea of “orientalism” in Western art music and local responses to the importation of Western music. The goals of this course are to extend the scope of understanding Chinese music as a cultural phenomenon rooted in social foundation and to expand the idea of musical analysis beyond what is presented simply as notes on the printed page.

Grading:

1. Participation and sharing: 20%
2. First in-class presentation on “Chinese music and Aesthetic” 20%
3. Final group presentation: select one piece of Chinese music and using the concept learned in class to explain why you think it is aesthetically pleasing (10 minutes per presentation) 30%
4. Final Exam (multiple questions and short answers) 30%
